

DAUGHTERS INTEND TO SHUN POLITICS

Annual Convention Expected to Be Harmonious.

NO FACT-ONAL DIFFERENCES

Continental Hall Proposition and the Election of Successors to Nine
Vice Presidents General Sir Delegates to Enthusiasm.

The tide of politics at this year's Continental Congress of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution will not run as high as it did last year, and there will be an almost entire absence of that feeling of antagonism in the ranks of the Daughters which prevailed throughout the last congress, when some feeling had grown out of the bitter partisanship of the members for the two main candidates for the president generalship, Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks and Mrs. Donald McLean.

It is thought by some of the members of the national board of management that on account of the absence of any important elections of officers this year the attendance, at next week's convention will fall below the average roll call of former years. But on the other hand it is argued that the attendance will exceed any of its predecessors by reason of the other important business which is to come before the Daughters for disposal.

Important Topics for Discussion.

The Continental Hall proposition has evoked the deepest interest in the ranks of the Daughters of the American Revolution; the question of depriving the individual chapters of representation as suggested in an amendment proposed by Mrs. Frances P. Burrows, of Michigan; the Warren Chapter of Monmouth, Ill., difficulty and the election of successors to nine vice presidents general whose terms expire this year, will bring together a large quota of delegates, alternates and members. It is claimed.

The vice presidents general whose terms expire this year are: Mrs. William Parker Jewett, Minn.; Mrs. John A. T. Hull,

The Best Remedy for Croup.

(From the Atchison, Kan., Daily Globe.)
This is the season when the woman who knows the best remedies for croup is in demand in every neighborhood. One of the most terrible things in the world is to be awakened in the middle of the night by a whimp from one of the children. The croup remedies are almost as sure to be lost, in case of croup, as a revolver is sure to be lost in case of burglars. There used to be an old-fashioned remedy for croup, known as live syrup and tain, but some modern mothers say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is better, and does not cost so much. It cures the patient, and "throws up the phlegm" quicker, and gives relief in a shorter time.
Give this remedy as soon as the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It never fails, and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Henry Evans, Wholesale and Retail, and all druggists.

Iowa: Mrs. Washington A. Roehling, New Jersey; Mrs. Julius C. Burrows, Michigan; Mrs. Albert H. Tuttle, Virginia; Mrs. J. Heron Crossman, New York; Mrs. James D. Wykoop, New York, and Mrs. S. B. C. Morgan, Georgia.

To Re-elect the Magazine's Editor.

It is the prevailing opinion that Mrs. Elroy M. Avery will succeed herself as the editor of the organ of the society, the "American Monthly," and so far as can be ascertained there will be no other candidate for the office of business manager besides the present incumbent, Miss Lillian Lockwood, who for a number of years has filled the office with much credit to herself and to the general satisfaction of the management. A resolution will be offered at this year's congress to recognize the faithful services of Miss Lockwood, by asking for a raise in her salary. The magazine, since she has been at the head of the business end of it, has grown to be less of a financial loss and with the present progress in the line of additional advertisements and judicious sale of the publication and other measures, the magazine is expected to be soon on such a basis as it is the wish of Miss Lockwood it should be.

A special argument will be made at this year's Congress to convince the Daughters to subscribe to the official organ in larger numbers; it will also be suggested that more popular reading matter be inserted in its columns and thus make it more attractive to the members and the general public. The question whether the magazine is to be put on public sale on the newsstands and other places will also be brought up for discussion.

FROM TOP OF THE MONUMENT.

An Arizona Man Goes Higher Than the Ordinary Visitor.

The foreman over at the Monument see all sorts and conditions of human life. An old man probably sixty-five years of age, climbed the steps of the big shaft this morning. He was James C. Brown, of Arizona, who is visiting the city. When he got to the top of the Monument Mr. Jones spent about an hour looking through the port holes, and was heard to soliloquize after this fashion:
"I mean to go to the top of the monument, the people who believe in it, but just look down there on that pond—those fellows down there look like so many flies. If their brains are as little in proportion as they are to their bodies in the world would their souls stay."

"When we are asleep our souls are sometimes hundreds of miles away and look over there at that train. Why, when I'm up here a train looks like it is but a worm crawling along. And over the old Long Bridge it is going. I was with the boys at Manassas when they got the stage fright, and I came across there with them. It seemed a good deal more dangerous than it looks now."
"I wonder if I am going any higher. Yes, there is a ladder. I'll climb it," and, suiting his words to his action he did. After coming down the visitor remarked to a man standing near by: "I paid for my ambition. I tore my breeches on that old ladder, but then I got up higher above the ground than the common herd when they go up in the Monument."

Money Does Not Mean So Much

To anybody in Washington or elsewhere that FIVE CENTS paid for the SUNDAY TIMES tomorrow will not be well spent. Well-spent money is that which brings us in exchange something better, worth more to us, than the money spent. The Times accepts this test. It will give you for five cents tomorrow more money-saving information, to say nothing about general human interest and intellectual inspiration, than any newspaper you ever saw. See the new FREE MEDICAL ADVICE DEPARTMENT, for instance.

A Washington Newspaper for the Washington People.

A Newspaper Devoted to Intimate Information as to Their Important Interests.

THE SUNDAY TIMES.

Tomorrow's issue will be so well worth its cost, so valuable to every resident of this city, that it would be an offence against common sense, as well as business wisdom, not to call attention to it in every possible way. It will be beautifully illustrated, contain thirty-six pages, and be full of strong, able, authoritative articles on important subjects interesting to every member of the family.

The price of The Sunday Times tomorrow and thereafter will be FIVE cents, because it is worth FIVE cents, and so good a newspaper cannot be sold for less. Since its old price was set it has grown from eighteen pages to thirty-six—DOUBLED. It will be thirty-six pages tomorrow, beautifully illustrated.

Some Distinctively Washington Features.

When the Clock Strikes Four.

A phase of afternoon life in Washington that can be duplicated nowhere in America. A word picture of a daily scene, supplemented with photographic illustrations, the whole making an article that will interest today, be saved for years, and be sent by enthusiastic readers to all parts of the country.

The Fate of the Office Seeker.

A humorous article—a really humorous article—of the trials and characteristics of a man every Washington adult knows, with a surprising ending. Illustrated by Bengough.

The Value of Art to the Inartistic.

A convincing, original talk with one of Washington's well-known young artists, illustrated with her own work, in which she shows how art study, much or little, helps everybody.

The Smallest Republic in the World.

The Junior Republic at Annapolis Junction will get much money and attention from Washington the coming week. The Times has an illustrated article upon it tomorrow that tells many interesting things about it that even its friends do not know.

What Would You Do With $47,000?

This question isn't so far away from you as you think. The Sunday Times will print some of the brightest letters written in America this week. They are on this subject, and were written right here in Washington. They are worth the price of the whole paper.

Just How Does Your Organization Stand?

More than 50,000 members of fraternal and secret organizations live in Washington. Tomorrow the Sunday Times prints two pages of fraternal and lodge news, with authoritative articles by recognized leaders as to just what each of their orders is doing in the nation and the city.

Southern Field and Track Athletics.

So written that every man who ever hit a baseball—or missed one—and every woman who ever stood on tip-toe at a race will be interested. Is a complete story of coming athletic events in the colleges and upon the tracks and in the fields of this vicinity. It is a beautifully illustrated article, and will make one want to take a deeper breath and run out into the open air. The amateur athletes who are coming to Washington receive especial attention.

The Drama in Washington.

With illustrations from life and stories that are realistic and accurate, this department of The Sunday Times will be an absorbing feature. The stage is always interesting, as it should be.

Society in Washington.

A respectful, interesting, and accurate record of events gone and to come, with here and there a good story and a striking announcement that is dependable.

And all the other news of the day, week, city, and Nation.

The Best Newspaper Value for the Money to be had in Washington Tomorrow.

Whatever interest is aroused by the accompanying fragmentary list of features will be amply justified by the newspaper itself. It's about Washington, the most interesting city in the United States; a newspaper to read for profit, for instruction, and amusement by the intelligent in every walk of life. Sunday Times features comprehend not the sensational, exaggerated accounts of uncanny phases of life, but vitally important, money-earning, money-saving thought-provoking, information-giving articles which make a clean, wholesome, cheerful, entertaining newspaper that lives close to the individual and domestic interests of the public.

A Washington Newspaper for the Washington People.

From every sphere of human activity there will be

STORIES OF HUMAN INTEREST

that appeal to busy people and that concern those who strive to be better and happier.

Interesting and Important Everywhere

A Miracle of Conscious Life.

The latest and one of the most wonderful and absorbingly interesting discoveries of modern science. There is nothing that concerns us so much as our own bodies. Learned investigators have discovered what our nerves are and have completely destroyed theories that have been accepted as true during all the years of medical science, and a physician explains in simple, direct language, with illuminating illustrations that anyone can understand perfectly.

Napoleon's Letters to Josephine

Now collected and translated into English FOR THE FIRST TIME. They are among the most remarkable communications in all history. They show him an ardent lover, a jealous husband, and a tender friend. Well illustrated.

Medical Advice Given Free.

It is astonishing what a valuable department this is—how much that's useful an honorable physician can tell the public without violating the ethics of the profession. He answers questions from readers of The Times as to their health and their ailments, that save them time and money and aid thousands of others at the same time.

The Young People Not Forgotten.

The Times expects to live through this generation and others, and it means to win early the applause of the future men and women. Therefore it will have the best children's page to be seen anywhere. Tomorrow's page is pretty good.

Admiral Dewey's Fishing Story.

An article that will be read and copied throughout the country, and that will be especially good here in Washington.

Miss Manhattan's Fashions.

The smartest pictures and the brightest fashion gossip to be found anywhere are upon Miss Manhattan's page, with which old readers are familiar and new readers will be delighted.

How the French Regard the English.

This is the feature of The Sunday Times that will make it talked about in the Diplomatic Corps. It is a discriminating, fair, incisive study of both peoples, with a funny side.

A Page of Fiction.

Three complete stories of adventure—stories with action, romance, and an occasional laugh in them—make up with a poem or two one of the best pages of the paper.

The Truth About Smallpox.

The most dreaded of all diseases is the most easily prevented. A remarkable—a really great article—by a recognized New York medical authority.

But the Hali Has Not Been Told

It can't be until Sunday morning, and then you can tell it as well as we can—and will enjoy it just as much.

FIVE CENTS ALL IN THE SUNDAY TIMES TOMORROW. FIVE CENTS

THIRTY-SIX PAGES BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

Because It's Worth It. Original Pictures and Cartoons. THE ONLY ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY NEWSPAPER IN THE DISTRICT OF COLOMBIA. Because It's Worth It.
